it was a total win-win because my man was so happy and so was i in some instances, the use of the titles is closely linked to the advertisers' pride in their pedigree in the art of herbal healing the usual criterion for saying an addict is doing well is abstinence - success in resisting the addictive substance it might even validate the ruminations of someone already depressed, paranoid, angry and unstable and without adequate impulse control